

The Making Institute

Professional Development for creative practitioners in outdoor and participatory arts

EEA

EMERGENCY
EXIT ARTS

Supported using public funding by
ARTS COUNCIL ENGLAND

The Making Institute is a new membership scheme to help the professional development of creative practitioners working in outdoor arts. Members will benefit from skills sharing and training on a range of practical subjects. The Making Institute also offers space for creative practitioners to experiment, innovate and generate ideas for new work.

Members also have the benefit of using Rothbury Hall as a London making space.

EEA will offer advice sessions on best practice including bid writing, health and safety, marketing and safeguarding when working with children.

Our launch event will be on Wednesday 29th January 2014 2pm - 7pm and will include 1-2-1 with a range of professionals including representatives from ACE; Higher Education and opportunities to have conversations about making work using pyrotechnics, engineering and digital arts.

Price: £30 + VAT which can be redeemed against annual membership subscription should you decide to join.

For further information please contact:

daniel.bernstein@eea.org.uk or visit

www.eea.org.uk/commission\_us/design\_and\_making